Ernie Moffatt spent three days
 this week at Innisfail, on business.

Report has reached us that F.
 Downie died on last Friday at Danville, Illinois.

The Harvest Thanksgiving service will be held in the Presbyterian church on Sunday morning at 11 o'clock.

William Rigby, one of the early farmers in this district, is visiting in town and looking after his farm interests here.

Mrs. John Fraser and her father, Mr. Goodrich, returned on last Friday from a two month visit at their old home in New York.

The ladies of the Church of England are having a tea on Saturday, October 30, from 3 to 6 o'clock at the Parish Hall. All are welcome.

Mr. Cottingham has returned to Clareholm after an absence of nearly two years and is again in his old place behind the counter at Reinecke's.

Mrs. A. E. Strange has been seriously ill for the past two weeks with blood poison, and is under the care of a trained nurse.
 She is reported to be showing a little improvement.

J. B. Boese received a telegram Monday announcing the death of his younger brother at the old home in Wisconsin. This is the second brother to pass away within a few months.

Mrs. L. C. McKinney M. L. A. will speak in the Odd Fellows Hall on Sunday evening, October 17th, at 7:30 o'clock. All who are interested in the coming reform are cordially invited to be present.

The council decided to extend the time for discount on current year's taxes in Clareholm to October 31st, with a 5 per cent discount for this month. Remember your taxes must be paid this month to secure the 5 per cent discount.

Both the gas engine and the steam engine at the town power plant are in the hospital this week, and the town has consequently been without electric light for a number of nights. Incidentally the affair is said to have been the occasion of a very warm council meeting at the last session.

John Fraser received word on the 8th that his son-in-law Neat-Mulligan, near Nobleton, had broken his leg in jumping over a fence. On Friday last Mr. Fraser received word that his son Arnold who was taking New's place while he is laid up, had been kicked by a horse, resulting in a badly broken leg. Both the young men are in the Lethbridge hospital.

A very sad accident took place on Wednesday morning when little Ollie Simedstad had her scalp torn from her head. By some means her hair became entangled in the electric plant in the basement of the house and she was lifted off her feet and was only saved when the scalp was completely torn from her head. Medical attendance was immediately obtained and she was taken to Calgary on the evening train. The case is undoubtedly a very serious one and we can but hope that her life will be spared.

How Saskatchewan University Responded To the Call to Arms

When the call to arms sounded throughout the Empire in the memorable summer of '14, the response of the universities was extraordinary. But the remarkable thing would have been if, from the homes of culture and idealism, where honour and righteousness and truth are cherished as man's supreme possessions, the response had not been as prompt and full as it was. In that prompt and full response Saskatchewan had a voice.

Today, as a result of the war, the University has in its possession a symbol that will always be greatly treasured. It is a huge, red flag, spangled with dark blue stars. There is a star for every University that enlisted. In the middle of the flag is a rectangle of white dotted with red stars. Those red stars represent the Fallen; there are sixty-six of them.

Entering the main building of the University, the visitor is at once arrested by the array of names enscrollled along the wall of the main corridors. These are the honored names of student warriors. It would almost seem to the visitor, if any institution guided the architect when he planned that unusual frieze, destined to be so soon and so closely inscribed.

These University corridors have become vocal for all time. Year in and year out, as new scholars come, they will be reminded of the blood-purchased honor gained for the University in the grim years of war, and the silent, proudest of those tablets will not be without effect.

The University at Saskatoon was twenty years old in 1914. In those years saw the going up, on the very heart of the prairie, of the splendid, white-stone, buildings which are today the pride of the Province. Those five years saw the staff of five that had first gathered in some town of the west, and increased to thirty, while the student body shot from 75 to 400. The prospect was golden.

Came the nightmare of August, 1914, and the shadow of war, falling over the world, caught the young University. By the following year no less than eleven members of the staff and over 180 of the students had gone overseas. Every department sent its quota—engineers, lawyers, theologians, and men, agrop marching off together.

"We are confident," said Dr. Murray in his report for 1914-15, "that our students who have gone forth will bring honor and glory to their country and their University. Their ranks include the very best of our members, the most intelligent, the most unselfish, the most intelligent, the most industrious, as well as the most daring and courageous. When we selected the phrase 'For God and Country' as the motto of the University, we meant that the University was so near at hand."

That confidence of the University which the President expressed was abundantly justified, and in his first post-war report Dr. Murray thus speaks—

The Imperishable Glory.

"If in the last five years we cannot show an outward and visible growth in buildings comparable to that of the first five, we can show an achievement that will live in the history and cast a glory upon this University and the men who played their part manly in these dark years, a glory that will make the years of the first five appear small and petty."

In these sombre years nearly three hundred and thirty students and teachers took up arms for human liberty and human rights. They fought with a bravery and a divine disregard for self that will live in the flash of pride to the cheeks of coming generations as they read the lists of their fallen etc. Of that number a full hundred suffered wounds and serious ailments; thirty-four were selected for signal honor by their Sovereign; and thirty-five sleep as heroes, reborn in the imperishable glory of brave and noble deeds to see them in the future of their grandeur, but as we roll away on the wheels of time from the immediate time and place of their happenings, they will rise majestic, like mountain peaks from the receding plain. Too near are we to speak without undue emotion of what they were and did, and of what their going means to us."

To one familiar with the University a glance down the list of the fallen and things become how tremendous the loss has been. Early in the list is the honored name of Reginald John Bateman, first professor of English at the University, one of the first to answer the call and one of the last to fall. Joining up as a private in 1914, he quickly rose to the rank of sergeant, went overseas with the 28th Battalion, being recalled in '16 to the command of a company in the University Battalion. He fell—a major—in the late summer of '18.

Terly here was "a man, take him for all in all, now as still to be brought from the mission's strokes, yet it may be said that the University is hallowed and consecrated by the memories of the men who have wrought for their honor, and who have translated her motto into a glowing epic—"Die et Patria."

Scholar, athlete, singer, poet, beloved alike by colleagues and students, dread of false foe and the 'lot of his comrades in arms. Major Bateman, dying in France, has added a golden leaf to the book of the humanities he taught. If means are being taken at the University to perpetuate the memory of this "good-lie" spirit, beautiful and swift.

Next to Major Bateman's name comes that of Harold John Blair, who for conspicuous bravery as a scouting officer was awarded the M.C. He had obtained his degree in Arts at the University and would have entered the Presbyterian ministry. His sermon is preached and the world is listening yet.

A little lower in the list is William Henry Davis, also an M.C., one of the early graduates of Emmanuel, an affiliated College of the University. He enlisted as a chaplain and met his death while bearing out wounded in the battle of Amiens. His M.C. came for bravery in the hell that was Pashendale.

The name of William Yates Hunter next catches the eye. A brilliant student of English, Capt. Hunter, after graduation, received an appointment as instructor at the University, also attending the efforts of Professor Bateman. Like the professor, he died in France. There died an accomplished gentleman, a fine soldier and a poet and writer of no mean order.

James Ross Macpherson, D.S.O., of the year '15, was also a poet, whose verses in the University magazine were, it is generally agreed, of outstanding merit. Major Macpherson rose from the ranks to the position of second-in-command of that distinguished regiment, the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry.

A James Gordon Hill, a clever law student, perished at Gassellette on the Somme, being first-bitten in the prize of good fellows was Hills, with a delightful sense of humor and the spirit of a poet.

Let the name of Arthur Lloyd complete the selection—a selection made almost at random of men known more intimately than others to the writer. Arthur Lloyd was the youngest son of Dr. G. E. Lloyd, of the University. This picture shows the University flag, wrought by the lady students and containing a star for every man who enlisted. The stars on the flag are of the background represent the Fallen.

Barr Colony fame, after whom Lloyd-minister was named. Dr. Lloyd's two other sons, Eaton and Percy, also graduates of the University, fought bravely on the western front, the elder gaining an M.C. All three boys were badly wounded, but Arthur alone mortally so. He had enlisted before being of age, was a sergeant while still in his teens, and fell as an officer. He fought as he played the college games, with all the vigor and freshness of youth; and he typifies that host of eager young men, rich of mind, rich of the University, who in the words of Brooke—"Poured out the red, sweet wine of youth."

So far as is known the following honors fell to Saskatchewan University men—18 M.C.s.
18 Military Crosses.
9 Military Medals.
3 Distinguished Conduct Medals.
3 Mentioned in Despatches.
2 Distinguished Service Order.
1 Croix de Guerre.

The head of the Khaki University was Dr. Edmund H. Oliver, first Professor of History in the University and now Principal of the affiliated Presbyterian College. Dr. Oliver, who was mentioned in despatches and promoted to the rank of Lieutenant-Colonel. Captain Gilgour, who achieved immense things for the Khaki University, was a graduate of the University. He has subsequently been ordained to the Presbyterian Ministry. Several other Saskatchewan University men assisted in the Khaki University, both in person and in spirit. The colleges which were subsequently formed. Captain J. B. Allen, M.C., had the honor of being the first British officer to enter Baghdad.

Certainly the record of the Provincial University is one of which it and the Province may well be proud. Tradition has been working in the dark, but in reality it is economy. In one instance a herd of registered Holstein cattle had been tested annually for tuberculosis for over 19 years and whenever a reacting animal was found it was disposed of. In spite of all the care exercised, one year it was found that over 50 per cent of the cattle in that herd reacted to the tuberculin test. This explanation given of this condition is as follows: When a cow becomes badly diseased with tuberculosis she will not react to the ordinary thermal tuberculin test. Such a cow was found in that herd which suddenly fell with a good case of tuberculosis and became what is known as a "spreader." In a single year something like 30 animals became infected with tuberculosis from this "spreader." Had the barn in which these cattle were housed been thoroughly lighted and ventilated, the chances are that the disease would not have spread nearly as fast as it did.

The extra cost of putting in a few windows, after all, is not excessive, and an abundance of light materially contributes to the health of the herd, and that the expenditure really becomes a profitable investment. Not only must we provide more light in our barns than we have been doing in the past, but we must also provide better ventilating facilities. The air in a cow barn or other stable should be completely changed every 20 minutes, and to do that in this section of country without making the barn too cold, a good ventilating system is required.

1,000 Square Miles of Pulpwood Forest Deeded Annually to Supply Newsprint.
The newspapers of the United States and Canada consume 2,130,000 tons of newsprint annually. Statist in this way, it probably conveys little information to you regarding the effect upon our forests. You will better appreciate the situation when I say that it represents the denudation of the mature trees on an area of 1,000 square miles of forest land each and every year. This will give you an idea of the enormous roads that newsprint manufacture is making upon the forests of North America. Mr. W. H. White, in address to the Vancouver Rotary Club.

It Should Not Be Too Green Or Too Dry.
"When is the best time to cut corn for silage?"
Corn is ready to go into the silo when the kernels are hard, when the lower three or four leaves are brown (as the result of maturity and not of frost) and the husks are beginning to dry. If cut when much greener than this, the silage will be too acid or sour and unpalatable and will not keep well. If it is much drier than indicated, the finely cut corn will not pack satisfactorily and porkefs or spots of moldy silage may result.

If corn cannot be cut until it is quite dry sufficient water must be mixed with it when it is put into the silo to make it possible to pack it properly. The amount of water desirable will vary, but broadly it may be said that there is greater danger in adding too little water than too much.

Ventilation And Light

Four Square Feet of Glass Needed For Each Animal Housed.

According to a summary of the tuberculosis eradication work carried on by the United States government in co-operation with the different states throughout the country, there are now in the United States 2,658 accredited herds. Minnesota leads with 413. She is followed by Virginia, with 326, while Pennsylvania, Wisconsin and North Dakota each have 220, 177 and 166 accredited herds. Never before have so many cattle been tested for tuberculosis in a given length of time as during the last 12 months. Everywhere cattle-men are beginning to realize that bovine tuberculosis is a real menace to their herds and that the sooner they clean them up the better it will be.

It is not enough to give the farmstead and barn one thorough cleaning after a test for tuberculosis has been made and the reactors disposed of. That sort of work must be continued and the place be maintained in sanitary condition at all times.

Not to be overlooked are the barns. The worst enemy of tuberculosis is light and the more of it we get into our barns the less danger there is of spreading from one animal to another in case one should become infected. The best authorities in the country consider that a table should be provided with four square feet of glass for each animal housed and that the windows should be so placed that the floor in every part of the building may be reached by the direct rays of the sun some time during the day. This much window space may seem like extravagance to those who have been working in a dark barn, but in reality it is economy.

Invents Machine For Pulling Flax

Montreal Man Claims It Will Replace Expert Pullers.

Geo. Sumner, president of Hodgson Sumner Company, Montreal, and president of the Montreal Board of Trade, who is 84 years of age, has in association with Victor E. Freeman, of New York, invented, after 10 years' effort, a machine which, it is claimed, will replace the almost extinct flax puller by hand. The machine was demonstrated at a gathering interested in flax implements industries, as well as agricultural experts from all over the United States, and it was agreed was a success. It operated without a hitch and harvested the flax more closely than was done by a gang of expert pullers employed to pull a patch by hand.

Why His Jaw Dropped.

"There isn't much I don't know about the English language," boasted the long-haired man in the club. "I'll tell you," replied a friend. "I'll dictate a paragraph to you." With an assured air the boaster seized his pencil, but his jaw dropped at the following: "Hugh Hughes was hawing a yale log from a yew tree, a man dressed in clothes of a dark hue came up to Hugh and said, 'Have you seen my ewe?' 'I will wait until I see this yew tree, I will go with you anywhere in England to look for your ewe,'" said Hugh Hughes."

Pacific Coast Has Big Future

Vancouver and Prince Rupert Will be Large Shipping Ports.

Hon. C. C. Ballantyne, minister of marine and fisheries, has returned to Ottawa from the Pacific coast on a highly optimistic frame of mind as to conditions in Western Canada. In view of the prosperity prevailing and the good outlook for the future, the minister expressed the view that there is every justification for the carrying out of the government's harbor improvement plans at Vancouver, Victoria and Prince Rupert. Prince Rupert, he said, promises to develop into a shipping port of considerable importance, as business in that part of the province promises to thrive, and it is five hundred miles nearer the Orient than any other Pacific port.

Of the export trade from British Columbia, he expressed the opinion that it is only in its infancy. "The Canadian government merchant marine will put on a line to India on November 1. They have also under consideration running ships from British Columbia ports to West Africa, South America and the West Indies. The government, when all their ships under construction on the Pacific coast are completed, will have sixteen ships in commission, and these ships will be operated from British Columbia ports."

Crop Estimate.

The Manitoba Free Press announces its estimate of the 1914 crop of the three Prairie Provinces as follows:
Wheat 2,487,500 bushels; oats, 352,100,000 bushels; barley, 47,500,000 bushels; flax, 7,152,000 bushels; rye, 891,000 bushels.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 15, 1920

It is only a few weeks now till nominations are due in the annual town election. It is time to begin to consider who will make good councillors for 1921.

The raw deal on sugar that the government through its board of commerce handed out to the people this week, emphasizes the fact that it is high time for a general election.

The lack of electric lights has been a serious handicap to the printing office this week, and as a result we have been compelled to leave over till next week some matter that should have appeared in this issue.

At the Press Association convention we learned from an address by the mayor for one of the big dailies, that the paper situation cannot improve within two years and will in all probability get worse, the disturbing cause being a demand, present and prospective, far in excess of the supply.

The Press Association convention at Calgary last week was attended by newspaper men and women from all parts of the province. The business sessions were replete with talks on and discussions of weekly newspaper problems, that could not fail to be of benefit to those present. The entertainment side of the occasion was not overlooked. On Thursday the editors and their ladies were the guests of J. H. Woods at a banquet at the Palliser Hotel, and they were the guests of the management of the Grand Theatre on Friday night, "amalgamated" being the attraction. It was a performance of high merit, in lighter vein, and deservedly played to packed houses.

U.F.A. READY FOR BIG DRIVE

Greenfield Confident that Alberta Organization will make Record Showing.

Herbert Greenfield, Westlock, Vice President of U.F.A. and chairman of the U.F.A. organization committee, advises that everything is in readiness for the big drive during the first week in November.

Most of the preliminary work has been done and it is expected that on November 1st and November 2nd upwards of 200 enthusiastic U.F.A. supporters will be in the field visiting their neighbors and soliciting memberships in the association.

The organization work in both Manitoba and Saskatchewan has been progressing favorably and reports from "district captains" indicate that the number of November 1st will see upwards of ten thousand active workers beginning their canvass in all the rural districts in the three provinces.

In this drive an endeavor will be made to have a representative of the farmers association visit every present farm or between the City of Winnipeg and the Rocky Mountains. The head of every household will be asked to contribute the sum of $6.00—no more no less. This amount will pay for a year's membership in the association, a year's subscription to the official organ and leave $2.00 to be used by the central district boards for organization purposes.

Associated with Mr. Greenfield on the Alberta Organization Committee are L. M. Gutz of Red Deer and Snow Smees of Nanton. All are members of Board of Directors of the U.F.A. The committee has fixed an objective of 20,000 U.F.A. members for the year '22 and all are confident that this figure will be reached.

Clareholm Local News

Mrs. John Miller left on Wednesday night for Washington. She expects to return in a week or ten days.

Several from here attended the funeral of Mark Love at Carmanag last Sunday. He was an old timer in the district.

Black's Famous Hawaiian Singers and Musicians will be at the Rex again Tuesday, Oct. 19. Reserved seats will be on sale at the drug store.

Monday next will be Thanksgiving Day. The stores and banks will of course be closed on that day, and the post office will be closed most of the day.

The addition to the Queen's Hotel is nearly completed and will be opened for business in a few weeks. This will make the Queen's one of the best equipped hotels in the south.

The Clareholm Local of the U. F. W. A. will hold a sale of fancy and useful articles, home cooking, and afternoon tea, in the Parish Hall, on Saturday, October 16, from 3 to 6 o'clock.

A rare treat was afforded a Clareholm audience when Staff Captain Lantz addressed a meeting in the Methodist church on Tuesday evening, October 5th.

Captain Lantz, who has spent some years as a missionary worker in India under the direction of the Salvation Army, is a widely travelled woman, and one of broad culture and wide interests. Her travels have brought her in contact with many forms and phases of religious belief and she is broad enough to recognize that there is good in all. She impressed upon her hearers the fact that fundamentally all peoples are very much alike and that the one great need for all the world, civilized and otherwise, is Christ.

The success of the gathering was due in no small measure to the efforts of Lieutenant Patterson, who came up from MacLeod to advertise the meeting and who that evening took a prominent part in the service. The audience, with the generous characteristic of Clareholm people, gave a splendid offering toward the carrying on of the Army's work in India.

While the Family Sits Around

On quiet evenings or afternoons, put on your favorite records. Play any selection you wish. Be sure to play some of mother's favorite old-time songs and one or two of dad's familiar ballads—play them all on your Columbia Grafonola.

You will get reproductions of exactly what the artists themselves produced on the original wax. Every note, every tone is distinct. The Columbia tone leaves give you complete and accurate control over tone volume without sacrificing tone quality or any of the beauty of your choicest records.

Then there's the Non Set Automatic Stop—no other phonograph has it—built right into the motor. Invisible. Nothing to move or set or measure. Just start your Grafonola, and it plays and stops itself.

Nova Scotia Lobsters Tempt American Palates

This Grand Lobster is three feet long. Compare with the many.

Canada produces 50 per cent. of the lobster supply of the world. In addition, the finest quality. The Lobsters of the New England coast are the little brothers of the more mountainous native to the more north and under waters of Labrador and indeed Canadian female lobsters are selected for use in American restaurants to improve the stock. The Labrador coast has the greatest known supply, but is too distant to be available for commercial purposes in general. The main supply now comes from the Gulf of St. Lawrence.

Particulars of the quality of the Lobsters caught in the Gulf of St. Lawrence, the famous coast of America, and from the waters of Nova Scotia. Nova Scotia is famous for its lobster, and indeed, and last but not least, the quality of the Lobsters caught in the Gulf of St. Lawrence, the famous coast of America, and from the waters of Nova Scotia. The Lobsters of the New England coast are the little brothers of the more mountainous native to the more north and under waters of Labrador and indeed Canadian female lobsters are selected for use in American restaurants to improve the stock. HAWAIIANS WILL PLAY AND SING AT THE REX

Famous Native Troupe to Visit Claresholm October 19th One Night Only

Perhaps you have heard the ukulele on the phonograph or in plays in which they were only incidental, but never before have you listened to music anything like that which this famous native troupe will get out of these weird native instruments at the Rex theater Tuesday, Oct. 19th.

They are singers and players of real ability and their engagement at the Rex will be a musical treat.

Both native and popular airs are on the program, demonstrating that while the steel guitar is particularly suited to the crooning, soothing melodies of the Pacific Isle, it can also be turned to the production of the up to date compositions.

Some vaudevilleist, about five years ago, said the ukulele was not a musical instrument but a vegetable, and vaudevilleists are still saying so. The fact remains that Hawaiian music, played on Hawaiian instruments by real Hawaiians stands practically alone today among the newer form of harmonic entertainment and occupies a big spot in the hearts of theater goers.
